CANTALOUP—CANTEMIR—CANTERBURY
CANTATA
CANTERBURY, SIMONE
by Geoffrey

Dear Reader,

Reminisce with us as you turn the pages of this book. Enjoy again the main events of '57-'58; and while you browse leisurely through this record, relive the year when joy and trouble, work and leisure were yours and ours to our eternal progress.

Throughout this work, frequent descriptions and quips first written by Geoffrey Chaucer some six-hundred years ago will delight your eye. Come with us on this late trip to Canterbury where, in the company of the Knight, our Crusader, and the entourage of the pilgrimage, you may wind your way to the "holy blissful Martyr . . . that helpeth us when that we were sicke."

Chaucer would chuckle in his accustomed way were he to read this borrowing from his greatest work and behold certain liberties in interpretation of his text. He would, on the other hand, be edified to find his lines transferred in meaning from the "holy blissful martyr," Thomas A. Becket, to the Eucharistic Christ, "who helpeth us when that we were sicke."

Enjoy this book and, while you do so, pray for the souls of its makers.

More Than A Friend

DOCTER HEILIGENSTEIN is more than a friend and physician to us Crusaders. He is a symbol that represents everything good.

Doc, as he is known to everyone, is always present to give his time, medical skill, advice, and money to anything or anybody that has a connection with Cathedral High.

We could go on forever listing what Doc has done for Cathedral, but every grad of Cathedral knows what Doc has done for him and the school.

We, the grads of '58, join the grads of many other years in saying thanks to Doc — a man who represents all that is good and Christian in life.

CRUSADER OF THE YEAR

A Knight there was, and he a worthy man,
Though so illustrious, he was very wise,
He was a truly perfect, gentle knight.

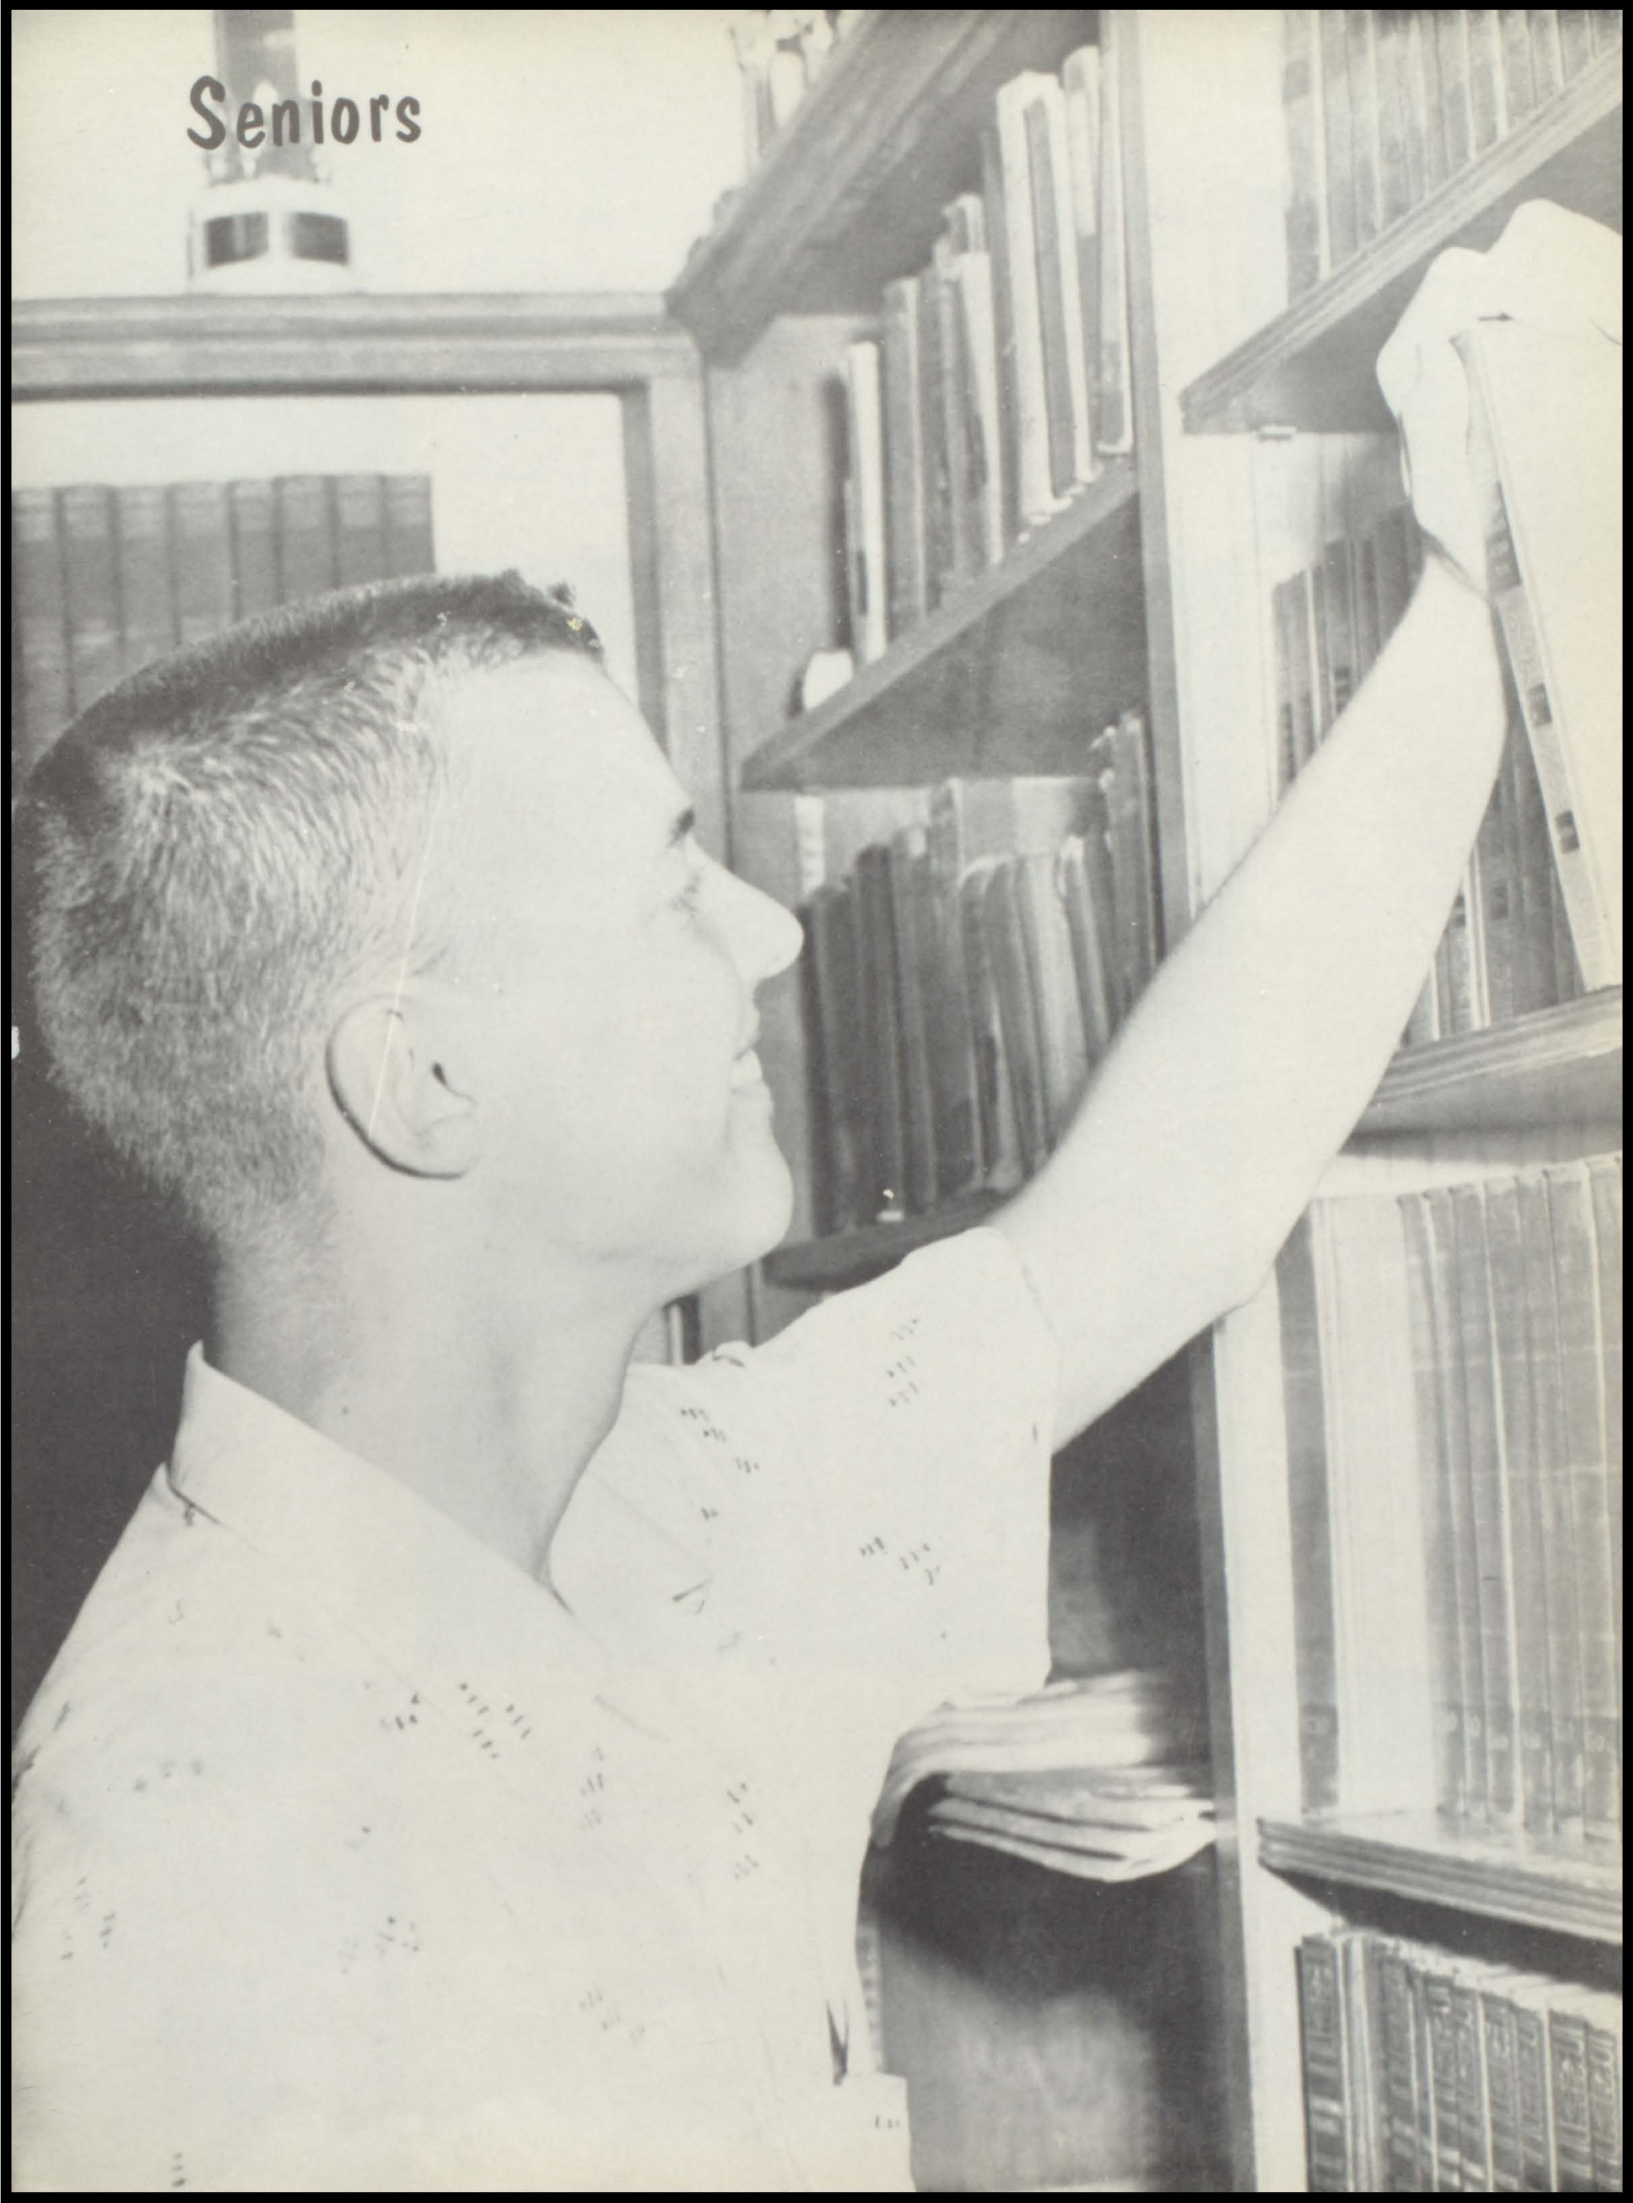

— From Canterbury Tales

The roster of ROBERT SCHEIBEL'S attainments at Cathedral reads like an all-star, all-scholastic, all-religious saga of triumphs.

At St. Mary's University in San Antonio, where Bob is studying this year, his escutcheon grows still brighter.

With all his friends, we wish him God's speed in all that he does.

The editors that worked to make the 1958 yearbook possible are standing: Copy editor Dave Aufdenspring; and social editor Charles McKeon. Seated in the center is editor-in-chief, Roger Yockey.

It is our hope that you will enjoy this book and save it as a reminder in years to come of your high school years, spent at Cathedral.

The members of the business staff, led by Dave Reeb did the job well, and are a big reason why there is a yearbook. The members of the business staff seated around the table, are: Bob Heafner, Dave Reeb, Bob Fries, and Mel Weck.

The writing staff of the Crusader of 58 seated are: Don Gore, and Charles McKeon. Standing are: Bob Blanquart, Bob Becker, Al Eschman, Joe Reichert, and John Sprague.

At the bottom we have those men who made the school paper, The Crusader, not only a good school paper, but we like to think of as one of the very best. They are, First Row: Nick Wiesen, Joe Reichert, Dave Aufdenspring, Charles McKeon, and Rich Baldwin. Second Row: Jack Yoch, Art Voellinger, Bob Blanquart, and Don Gore. Editor Bob Wiesemann is standing in the foreground.

At the top we have the editors of the Crusader. Jack Schrand, Al Jerger, Dave Tuerck are standing around Chief Editor Bob Wiesemann.

PAPER STAFF

LIBRARY Club

ART CLUB

The members of the Art Club, above, and the Camera Club, below do a very important, but somewhat thankless job. Taking pictures for the school publications is the very important task of the Camera club. Making sure that the names and numbers of all basketball players are on the scoreboard is faithfully done by the Art Club. Both of these clubs do a fine job in helping the school.

"58" Cheerleaders

The cheerleaders in victory or defeat always cheered loud and long for the Crusaders. The girls deserve thanks for a job well done.

IN CLOSING

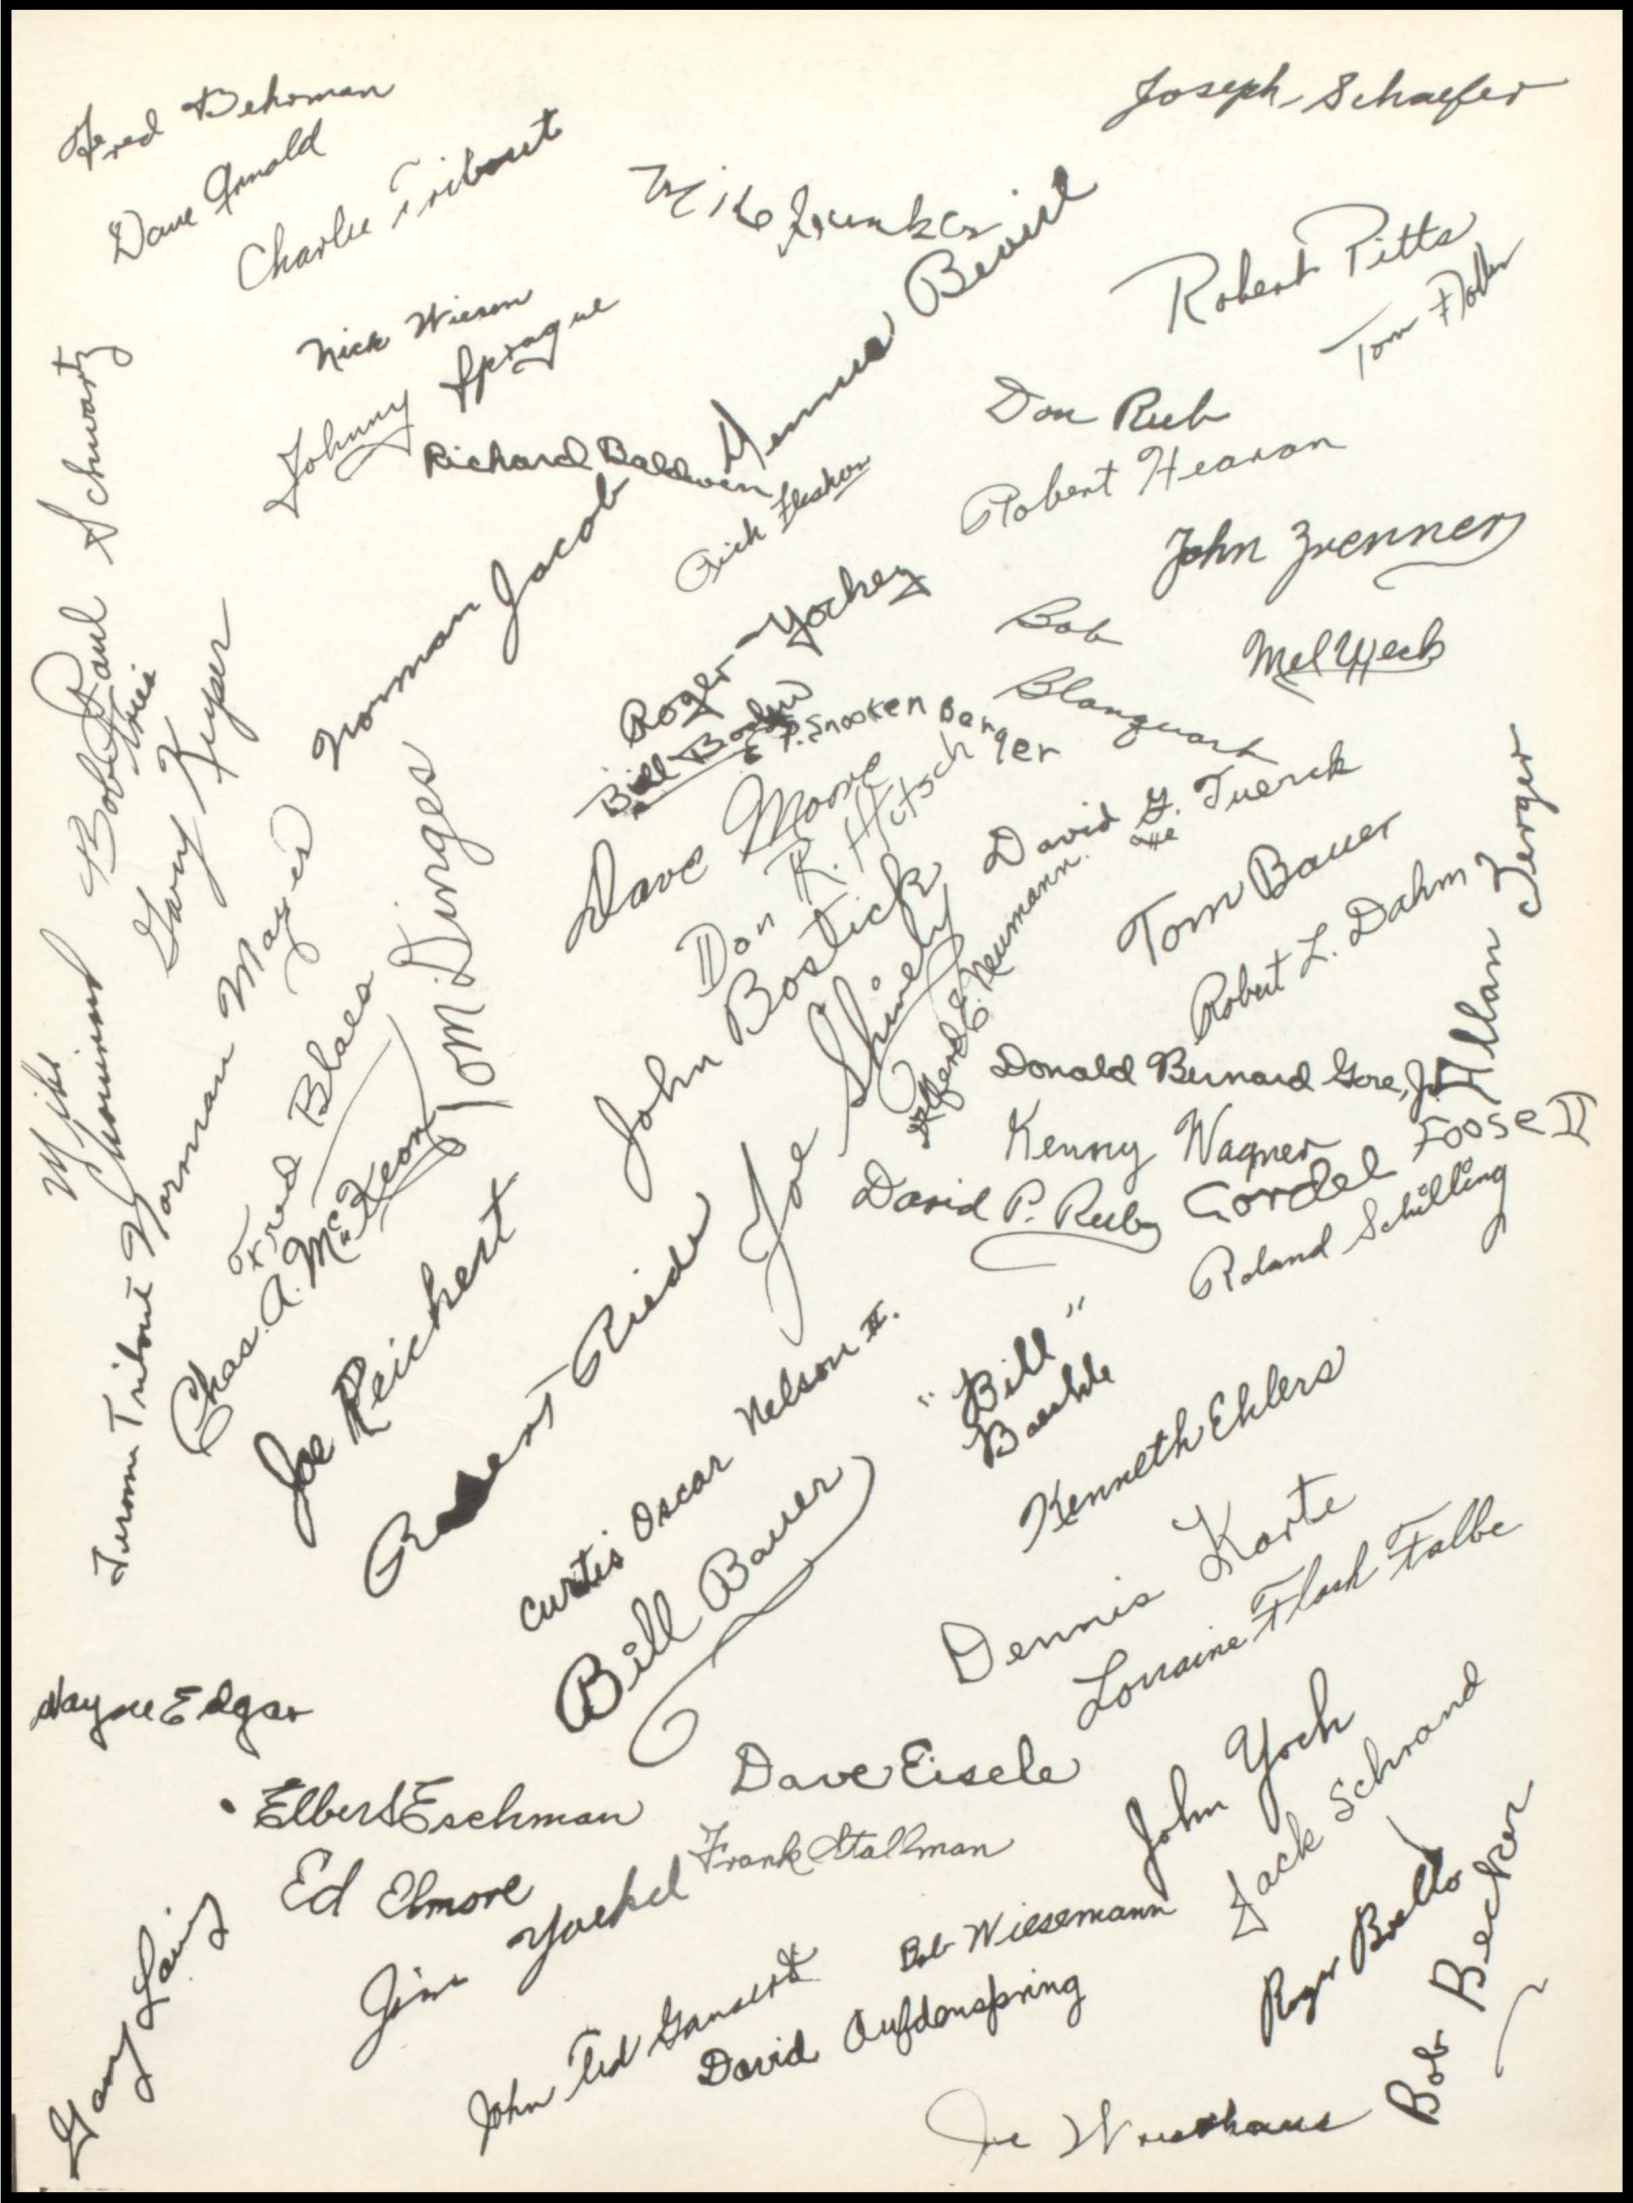

Some people do not like the work of Chaucer, and some people will not like the Crusader. The only thing I can say, as editor, is that we of the yearbook staff did our best to make this book a fitting yearbook for the class of 58. If we have made most students feel we have done this, then we have done what we set out to do.

In closing, I would like to thank all, both student and teacher for making this book possible. I can only say thanks to those of my staff who did what they could, the best they could.

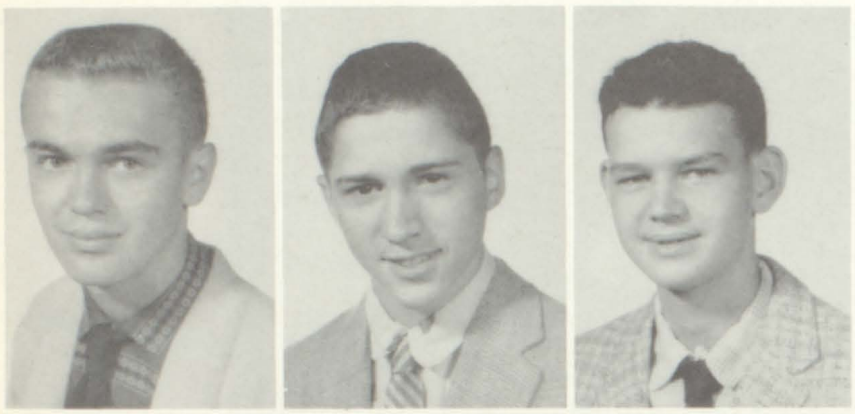

Brother Lehan and Jim Eichholz have given more time than anybody, and the book is largely the result of their labor.

If I could see through McKeon's arm, I would see Dave Reeb and the business staff hard at work. Since I can't see them I can only hope they hear my thanks, for a job well done.

GREAT EXPECTATIONS

Are accomplished by a little extra effort in everything you do — Completion of a high school education, and graduation, is only the gateway to a successful career.

It's the determination to dignify the job you have, to increase your sense of satisfaction, and in unrestricted training to qualify yourself for opportunity to greater individual achievement.

Be the best of whatever you are.
